TEXTILINE

The textiline is a micropierced fabric with plastic coated and heat sealed polyester yarn which guarantee excellent stability of the stitching and also weight and durability resistance. The coating in plastic gives the fabric physical resistance and prevents colour fading during continuous exposure to the sun and severe weather conditions. Therefore, it is particularly suitable for outdoor use. The material is easily washable with soap and water.

Spaghetti,

the legendary outdoor relax chair, retains the memory of some particularly smiling years: the sixties! During that decade everyday objects and furnitures changed: they adapted to a more unconventional lifestyle, and as new outdoor furnitures were designed, the upright seating experience from before also evolved. Plastic became a key design feature and played an important role in new, everyday objects. This was certainly the case of the outdoor deckchair Spaghetti that, still to this day, perfectly embrace the spirit of these years. Furnitures from the sixties later earned the title of cult objects, and among them we can find our beloved Spaghetti chair. It's still hand-braided in Italy, adjustable in six different positions and equipped with a storable footrest.

PVC

The iconic Spaghetti chair and its characteristic siblings have their upholstery made by the finest PVC-strings entirely woven by hand. The extruded PVC strings handle high weight loads and makes the seat elastic. The lightweight and open construction of the long strings of PVC makes the Spaghetti chair ideally suited for outdoor use. PVC is easily cleaned with water and soap.

OLEFINE

Olefine is a synthetic textile fiber which consists of long fibers of propylene plastic. Its special structure prevents it from being attacked by mildew, fungi and bacteria which is damaging to health and can cause unpleasant odors. The material has passed the most advanced laboratory tests, and guarantee strong resistance to light and abrasion. The soft cushions made with olefine have polyester stopping and are waterproof and washable.
