Scandinavian design // Sustainable thinking

At Formgatan we research the concept of sustainability. Since 2018 we have been working on finding new materials and design collaborations to explore this concept further. The story of each product always begins with the story of the material - to create good interior design with purpose.

“The thought of making beautiful items for everyday living, from everyday waste, inspires me to search for recycled products. At FORMGATAN we will keep creating sustainable, long living design objects.”

DESIGN RUGS

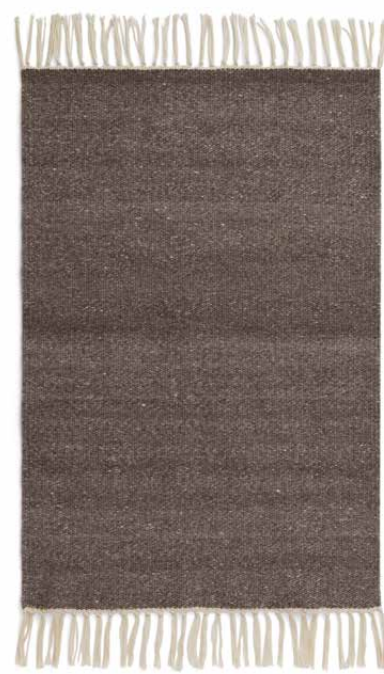

We love minimalistic simplicity as well as traditional patterns and colors. History runs through every piece created, inviting our thoughts to wander through barren landscapes, deep dark forests, snow covered glaciers, dusty, muddy fields and the wild ocean.

Our collection of rugs are produced from recycled plastic bottles and some can be used both indoor and outdoor.

The thread from our PET-yarn is hair thin and soft. The rugs are handmade and unique from the hands of the individual weaver.

LOOP

Our Loop rug is handwoven and made of 100% recycled PET plastic bottles.

LACUNA

The Lacuna rug is woven in a pattern combining the loop technique with flat woven parts. A simple yet beautiful design interpretation of the look of sand after the tide.

CORK

The beauty of the cork is the trees ability to regenerate after harvesting. In other words, with a careful manual harvest you can take the cork from the tree every 9th year and the tree can still become up to 300 years old.

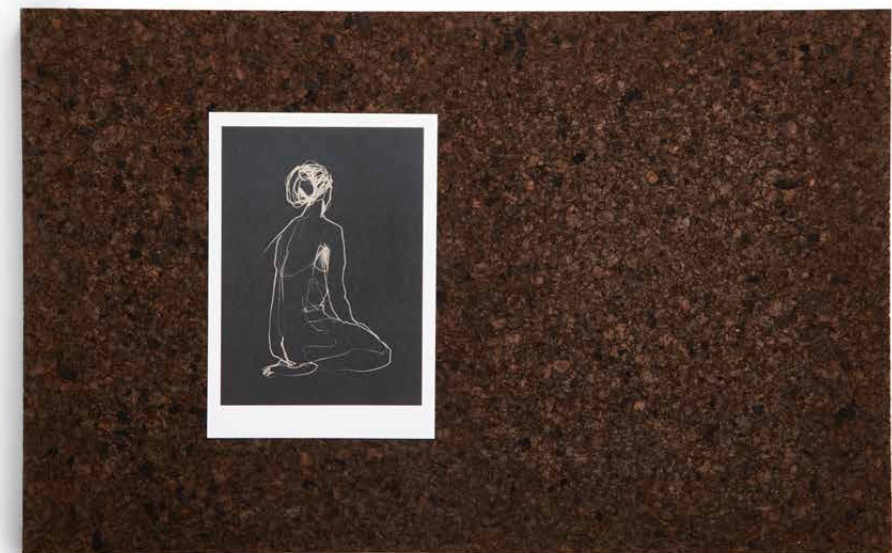

We are fascinated by the idea of making long lasting design products with an edge from this beautiful natural material. Cork is durable, easy to clean, soft and leaves no scratches. Oak woodlands is a true haven for the ecosystem and its wildlife.

RECYCLED GLASS

FLOW

The design collaboration with Danish designer Matias Moellenbach grew out of a shared vision of design that matters and makes a difference. Where attention is paid to materiality and durability - over time. The Flow Vase Collection is mouth blown in 100% recycled glass to utilize waste material and recreate its value.

Inspired by the poetic nature of the ever changing ocean. The sculptural Flow collection embodies the constant movement of water with its ripples, waves and curves.

The design plays with the characteristics of traditional paper vases by mimicking its two-sidedness. This is emphasized by each side having unique hand-engraved angled ridges that beautifully bends the light and distorts the view.

Being hand-blown in recycled material, these vases will have variation in size, shape, and color — making each one special.
